Boston's Turnkey Condominium The Parker Commences Closings

The Parker, a new condominium development overlooking Boston, is welcoming residents to its 168 turnkey homes. Named in honor of Sarah Parker Remond, whose activism led to the integration of the Old Howard Theater, The Parker exhibits bold architecture by Stantec and interiors by Linda Zarifi of Zarifi Design, inspired by the Theater District's "rich history of personal expression," says a press release.

Ranging from studios to two-bedroom homes, each of The Parker's residences features nine-foot ceiling heights, oversized windows with panoramic views, five-inch-wide oak flooring, and custom design details. Turnkey residences are available furnished with a limited-edition collection designed by Linda Zarifi.

Amenities at The Parker include an elegant game room with a custom billiards table, a private screening room, a speakeasy-inspired bar, a fitness center, and a roof deck with skyline views. Pricing for currently available residences goes from $645,000 for a studio to $2.65 million for a two-bed, two-bath home.
