

REAL ESTATE GIMME SHELTER

Gronk goes from tight end to gym designer in Massachusetts

By Jennifer Gould

November 10, 2022 | 5:23pm | Updated

Gym dandy: Gronk (center) is designing slick residential fitness centers like this one in Boston's Parker building.
The Parker

NFL legend Rob “Gronk” Gronkowski is getting into the world of fitness design, Gimme Shelter has learned.

The Super Bowl champ finally retired this year after nine seasons with the New England Patriots, followed by two seasons with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Now, the former tight end and Buffalo-area native has designed a gym inside the Parker, a luxury condo offering turnkey residences in Boston.

It marks the first time that family-founded Gronk Fitness is designing a private gym inside a residential condo.

The gym is 1,300 square feet in size.